In a recent memo to department heads, Fr. Marion Bowman, O.S.B., President of the College described the College's financial picture in this way:

"Each department head should know what he or she should do without in a pinch. Well, we are in a pinch."

Saint Leo College Comptroller, Thomas L. Piazza, projects a $200,000 deficit for this fiscal year based on current spending rates.

Following last year's staggering $250,000 deficit this really throws the proverbial monkey wrench into the College's plans for the future.

This article will attempt to display the basic information of a general student interest and to explain the accounting jargon in such a way that the casual observer might grasp the full significance of the institution's current standing.

Budgets

The budget making procedure is designed to predict the College's income and to apportion it among the various departments.

Budgeting for next year has already been overestimated. It is necessary for the College, therefore, to predict with a degree of accuracy the expense requirements and what income will be necessary to support the expenses. The College's present financial bind is due in part to the fact that previous years' budgets were not as accurate as need be.

Current Expense & Income

Table 1 describes the educational and general expenditures for the past five years as well as the related years' revenues.

Deserving of special note is the steady expansion of student services within the past four years. The College currently plans for this trend to continue and for the non-academic student services to continue to widen perceptively.

The combined instructional and library expenditures are about half of the College's educational and general expenses, as should be expected.

Table 1 shows the sources of the College's educational and general revenues. Ever since the College started, it has depended heavily on student fees to maintain stability. All though it has dropped somewhat in recent years, the contribution of student fees to the income is a whopping 92%. Most educational institutions show that student fees contribute only about one third of that figure or about 33% of the overall income.

Current Fund, Losses & Gains

Figure 1 tells the tale of the current fund surpluses and deficits. In fiscal year 1970, the College suffered a $250,000 deficit. This means that it spent $250,000 more than it took in!

This deficit was partially anticipated. No tuition increase was planned and a loss of $100,000 was budgeted. The previous year had been good and the College could have absorbed the projected deficit. What happened was that the anticipated income failed to materialize. Revenues from auxiliary enterprises declined 35% from the year before. The resulting deficit was too large to be absorbed and the College was forced to take drastic action in the form of special financing.

The data for revenues and expenditures per student are given in Figure 2. The importance of net auxiliary income is clearly shown especially in fiscal year 1971 where the loss definitely upset the College's financial picture.

Future Sources of Income

The College will have to continue to depend heavily on student fees for several years. Obviously, student fees can't continue to be increased and the institution will have to start looking to other sources of income. More results will have to be expected from the Development and Public Relations office. Additionally, realizing the need for government assistance, a special office has been created specifically to seek government funds.

While the future of both of these endeavors is somewhat cloudy, it is easily apparent that the outcome will be crucial for this institution.

Outstanding Debts

The major financial obligations of the College are found in plant fund. Two mortgages, due in June and July of 1975, total $900,000. To secure the first of these mortgages, the activities center, costing $1,108,375 and all the equipment therein was pledged. For the second, all unencumbered real estate and personal property of the College was pledged.

These mortgages for $300,000 and $600,000 form the bulk of the College's obligations. The interest on these loans is 7.75% and 8.87% per year, respectively, resulting in about $250,000 per year purely in interest payments without money set aside for actually repaying the principal. These two loans were financed through Trustee Raleigh Greene's bank.

Several other loans in combination with the two mentioned above bring the total to $1,582,718 due mainly defore 1978 with one for $283,000 due in 1987.

What Is Going To Be Done?

by Father Mark Toon, Ph.D.

"A motion was approved that the Senate advise, by letter, Father Marion, Dr. Peterson, and Mr. Zingales that the current faculty evaluation by students is not valid and of no value." (Minutes of the Faculty Senate, Feb. 11, 1971) The Faculty Senate is the representative body of the Faculty Association; it consists of eleven faculty members, nine of whom were present for the meeting of Feb. 11.

"Not valid and of no value" – that is what a representative group of the faculty, speaking for the faculty, thinks of student opinion at Saint Leo College. What a strange way to keep channels of communication open: to tell the student body even before the results of the evaluation are known that their views are "not valid and of no value."

What could convince a group of nine intelligent and upright faculty members to express publicly such an astonishing judgment? The Faculty Senate gave three reasons for saying that the student evaluation is "not valid or useful":

1) "The procedure adopted makes student collusion in the ratings not only possible but highly probable" – in simple language, this means that the Faculty Senate judged, without evidence of the fact, that in this matter the students formed a conspiracy to cheat (that's what "collusion" means).

2) "No provision has been made to explain rating form nomenclature to students" – which means that the Faculty Senate judged that Saint Leo students as a group were not even able to read the evaluation form.

3) "Procedures for the evaluation do not ensure that students know faculty members they evaluate" – which means that the students are so ignorant that they do not even know which professors are teaching the courses they are taking.

If the Faculty Senate was convinced that the students are cheaters, illiterate, and ignorant, they were surely justified in concluding that the evaluation of the faculty by the students is "not valid and of no value."

In this matter of faculty evaluation by the students the question that keeps recurring is, "Is the student body capable of evaluating a teacher? " I would answer this question with an unequivocal "Yes"; and in support of this answer I would offer the following observations:

1) the students as a group know more about the actual performance of the teachers than anyone else, for the simple reason that they spend more time with them than anyone else.

2) the students as a group are wise enough and fair enough to evaluate teachers correctly. The truth of the matter is that the large majority of students recognize good teachers when they have them, and evaluate them as such. It is also true that a small minority of students will evaluate a teacher for selfish personal reasons. But as John Dewey says in his Essay on Democracy, "The individuals of the submerged mass may not be very wise. But there is one thing they are wiser about than anyone else, and that is where the shoe pinches, the troubles they suffer from."

3) The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that 18 year olds are mature enough to vote in national elections (President, Senators, Representatives). They are then surely mature enough to participate in an evaluation of the faculty at Saint Leo College.

The Lion Comments

by John W. Frank

On the Validity of S.G.A.'s Faculty Evaluation .

The apparent hostile feelings of certain members of the faculty in their doubt over the validity of the Student Government Association's Faculty Evaluation is most interesting in light of developments that have taken their course during the year.

Resorting to such defensive attitudes as many have already indicated only serves to justify the evaluation all the more. To assume the rationalization that the student isn't capable of objectively analyzing his teachers is a rather cheap way of buying one's way out of what might be an embarrassing, but truthful situation.

Yet it was many of these same faculty members that praised the students of Saint Leo College for the mature way in which they handled the visitation issue, the interest they have shown in developing a more progressive academic scope at Saint Leo, and their general concern for the sake of the institution – a concern that was not nearly as evident a year ago.

Interesting too is the apparent high regard the faculty has of student opinion. For if they did not have such strong feelings of how they are looked upon by their students, why would they meet before the results of the evaluation are tabulated and openly condemn the project as being of "no value."

Apparently a number of the faculty have something to safeguard – perhaps their reputation, their salary, their personal dignity or even their inadequacies. Yet, it is an honest doubt that many of them are fully aware of the student and that what he has to safeguard is far more important – his education.

On Student Government

Student involvement and concern has shown itself in other areas. Never in the history of the Student Government Association has there been such a number of candidates seeking office.

The reason for this circumstance is undoubtedly the fact that S.G.A. has risen to the point where it now assumes a prestigious status in the eyes of the student constituents, the faculty, and the administration. Student Government is recognized as a force that, provided it be utilized properly and strategically, can serve as a most effective means of realizing results that will not only benefit the students but also assist in making Saint Leo College an institution of learning dedicated to the ideals of higher education.

The students feel that much must still be done so that Saint Leo College will come closer to this ideal. More important many of them feel that an effective Student Government is the means to attaining such a situation. As for the others, they must be persuaded by Student Government and their fellow students that apathy has no place in the search for ideals.

The Lion urges all students to seriously ponder their individual contribution to making Saint Leo a better place to learn. And, certainly, one contributes when he gives to Student Government the respect that is certainly due to it.

All students are urged to attend Student Government campaign speeches on Tuesday night, March 9. Elections will take place Wednesday and Thursday, March 10th and 11th.

Show your concern and your involvement – Vote.

Encounter Deadline Approaching

This is a reminder for those who are planning to contribute literary works to the Encounter; the deadline of February 28 is rapidly approaching. Please plan to have your contributions in by this time. If you find it impossible to meet this deadline we will continue to accept the various materials through March 5th.

Send your contributions to Box 96 or bring them to the Student Publications office in the basement of Saint Francis Hall. Please include a return address with your materials.

Fr. Bowman Now "Official" Pres

Saint Leo, Fla. – Father Marion Bowman, O.S.B., Acting President of the College since April 27, 1970, has been named President of the College, retroactive to the first day he assumed the office.

The Saint Leo Board of Trustees passed an enabling resolution at its meeting last January 29, thus making Father Bowman the Fourth President of Saint Leo College.

Father Bowman will end his term as President of the College on July 1, 1971. At that time, Dr. Thomas B. Southard will officially assume the office of President.

Little Murders almost that

It is my personal belief that liberty without law and expression without restraint seldom exist too long. In the portrayal of humanity and its foibles, I think there is a fine line that divides the genius of expression (in any art form) and pornography.

I enjoyed our production of Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolff. The Acting was excellent because it gave a realistic meaning to the playwright's message and theme.

I did not enjoy Little Murders. To me the skits piled blasphemy on blasphemy for the sake of blasphemy; obscenity on obscenity for the sake of obscenity; repetition of crudity for the sake of crudity.

Jules Feifer's epic portrayals of the human scene, to my mind, are cogent and superb. His characters in Little Murders were portrayed by a group of accomplished actors and actresses, terribly over-coached into caricatures of humanity. And there was no let-up in all of the action so that, at the conclusion, the audience was left exhausted and disgusted.

I don't believe in satire for satire's sake. Then you lose your message. But satire can be one of the most powerful mediums for delivering a message if it is used with artistry. In Little Murders, at least on Saturday night, it was difficult to distinguish between the bufoonery of the actors and the bufoonery of some of the audience.

I pitied poor Larry Thomas who had to carry Portnoy's Complaint about with him continuously. I thought Liz Anderson, who bore the burden of the "play" along with Bev Borough, was the best of the cast. Greg Moran as a Walter Mitty type, was his usual excellent self. And John Moskal, in his too brief appearance, showed the reasons why he has been accepted by the Florida Repertory Theatre of Asolo at Sarasota.

I realize that my concept of Little Murders will not be shared by all others who attended our presentation. But I would like to reiterate that man's problems, when presented in satirical form, require a delicate presentation if there is to be any effective meaning or search for answers.

–Brother Bernard, O.S.B.

Historical Note From the Abbey Archives

In 1889, the Reverend Frederick Hoesel, O.S.B., of Saint Mary's Abbey, Newark, N.J., was appointed the first director of Saint Leo College. On his way down to Florida he stopped at Belmont, North Carolina, to visit Abbot Leo Haid, O.S.B., the founder of Saint Leo Abbey. Father Frederick never reached Saint Leo as he died suddenly at Belmont during his visit.

Father Charles Mohr, O.S.B., was then appointed to succeed Father Frederick. Father Charles became Saint Leo's first Abbot in 1902.

Circle K Week Across the Nation and at Saint Leo

The offices of Circle K International in Chicago have declared the week of March 7-13th, 1971, as Circle K Week in Canada and in the United States. The annual observance serves to recognize one of the most socially and dynamically involved campus organizations in North America.

Last week, Charles Eason, member of the Saint Leo College Circle K Club and also Administrative Coordinator for the Florida District of Circle K, was present in Tallahassee for a presentation by Governor Ruebin Askew proclaiming March 7-13th as Circle K Week in the State of Florida.

On the local level, John Frank, President of the Saint Leo College Circle K Club, recently received a joint resolution from Rev. Marion Bowman, O.S.B., President of Saint Leo College, and Sister Lucy Faciane, O.S.B., Mayor of the Town of Saint Leo, declaring March 7-13th, 1971, as Circle K Week at Saint Leo College and in the Town of Saint Leo.

Circle K International, one of the largest collegiate organizations in the United States, is established on 700 college campuses and claims a membership of more than 10,000 college men. Dedicated to effective involvement in campus and community concern, it has adopted for this year's theme, "Answers Through Action." Inclusive under this heading, Circle K has effectively concerned itself with five major areas of social distress: Ecology, Communications Gap, Drug Abuse, Minority Crisis, and Disadvantaged Youth.

The Saint Leo College Circle K Club, recognized as one of the most outstanding Circle K Clubs in Florida and even in International, has resolved to conduct some project or program during Circle K Week along each of these five areas of concern. Plans include a meal fast where monies that would otherwise go to the cost of food would be put towards a fund to help subsidize a Rehabilitation and Methadone Center in North Pinellas County. During the same week, the club will conduct Ecology seminars and provide special means whereby the students of Saint Leo College can actively become involved in the fight to save our natural resources.

Circle K is also planning some sort of program to better student-faculty rapport on campus. The club urges all faculty members to become more involved with the students and even to assume some sort of social relationship. Members of the faculty will be urged to invite a few students to their homes for dinner or some similar occasion.

The Saint Leo College Circle K Club is also planning projects with the Benedictine Boys Village and the migrant workers in the area, also to be conducted during Circle K Week.

All students and members of the collegiate community are invited to join in Circle K's effort to seek "Answers Through Action." More information on the activities of Circle K Week will be made available shortly.

As the Greeks Would Like It

by Robert Bryant Camilleri

Beginning on March 1, the fraternities and sororities of Saint Leo College will be hosting and participating in one of the most widely acclaimed social events of the year – the annual Greek Week. Unlike last year, the naming of this social event has been changed slightly from last year's famed Greek Weekend activities.

The Week opens with the well-known and always exciting competition of man against man, from which to the victor goes the spoils of being the first to light the Torch, one of the highlights of Greek Week. The Torch Race is scheduled to begin at 7:00 p.m. in front of the Records Office and is to end with the climactic Torch lighting in the Bowl.

Harper, starring Paul Newman, is scheduled to be shown afterwards.

Tuesday is devoted to the movie goers who will be treated to the suspense-filled flick, The Night of the Generals.

For the proponents of Women's Lib, the sororities will be given equal opportunity to display their talents on the School Track on Wednesday, at 4:00 p.m., as they participate in the Girls' Obstacle Course Race.

That same night the sororities can rest their tired bodies, while the rest of the student body is entertained as Arlo Gutrie vividly demonstrates his acting ability in the movie, I Love You Alice B. Toklas.

Thursday kicks off the Combined Men's and Women's Swimming Events, scheduled to begin at 3:00 p.m. This is a new event which was selected to replace the Canoe Races of yesteryear. That same night, the masses will bear witness to The Great Race.

Due to a last minute cancellation, Sweetwater will be entertaining the patrons at Friday night's concert.

Following the Sweetwater performance, the Crowning of this year's "Greek Goddess" will take place. The candidates and their respective Greek sponsors are as follow: Marilyn Kennedy, Kappa Theta; Ann Disken, Alpha Sigma Chi; May Lou Riggone, Phi Theta Chi; Gini O'Brien, Sigma Beta; Lynda Deitz, Kappa Alpha Sigma; Kay Hebert, Sigma Lambda; Marsha DeLord, Phi Tau Omega; Pat Crown, Delta Phi Delta; Kathy Arneberg, Alpha Sigma.

By far, Saturday's events will far exceed all others in the range and scope of their importance to the fraternity and sorority which will become the ultimate victors of Greek Week. At noon, on the school track, the Men's and Women's Events will be held in a format similar to what the Greeks of long ago (not Spiro Agnew) used. Included in the activities are numerous racing events, field events, and even a Chariot Race.

In order for any event of any stature to be successfully run, a committee of truly diligent and hard working people must be formed. So is the case with the Greek Week committees. This year's committees exemplify true spirit of dedicated hard working people.

The Athletic Directors for this year are Robert Cabot and John O'Neil. The Greek Goddess Committee is in the capable hands of Peter Crover and John View. Last, and not least, the Athletic Directors of each respective fraternity and sorority have devoted much time and energy in seeing that their teams are ready in every possible way for the events that mark Greek Week.

John View, Inter-Fraternity Council President, sums it up this way: "Greek Week is NOT just a big week of parties and drinking. A lot of time, effort and hard work go into this annual program. It helps bring out the spirit of competition between all participants, and fosters a spirit of togetherness with the faculty and other people."

Faculty Evaluation Progress Report

Although evaluation forms are still being turned in daily to the Student Government Office, the Data Processing Office reports it has already processed several thousand of the forms and is still only roughly 70% complete.

Nearly 6,500 forms were distributed to students either via their respective floor directors or through the day student mail boxes in Saint Edward Hall. As the forms are returned they are key punched for input to the school's IBM 1130 computer and subsequent analysis.

The results of the evaluation are to be published in a booklet by the Student Government Association and made available to Saint Leo students and faculty as well as to the administrative officials of the College. Target date for completion of the evaluation is previous to pre-registration for the fall 1971 semester.

WELCOME PARENTS

This is the annual Freshman Parents Weekend. Parents have converged on campus to have a closer look at the College, and to speak with administrators and faculty of Saint Leo.

Having traveled long and short distances to visit their sons and daughters, they can enjoy a weekend of activities, meetings, appointments, and recreation.

One particular interest to students and parents is the Scholarship Convocation Friday afternoon at 2:30, at which time students who have merited placement on the Dean's List will be recognized.

Last semester, of students still on campus, 127 were named to the list.

The title of her address will be "Rights and Privileges Appertaining thereto."

This year, as in the past, students from various student organizations will serve in several capacities during the weekend, assisting the parents from the time they arrive and register until the time they leave Sunday afternoon after mass and lunch.

A Time to Act

by James Biondi, President of Freshman Class

Much has been said, but little has been done concerning the problems and inadequacies of our academic program. This year there has been an increase of concerned students, students that give a damn, students that refuse to be subjected to the inferior academics this institution is reputed to provide, and students with enough interest and courage to initiate change instead of remaining stagnant.

It is true that conditions have improved and new plans are projected; but all is too slow. We (the Freshman Class) are only here three more years and the value of our degree depends upon rapid improvement of academic standards.

We realize the financial state of our school. A radical action demand would be senseless. However, we feel some pressure should be exerted to assure the administration of our earnest intentions. We urge that our proposal be considered as a strong request rather than a passive plea, filed ineffectively in a wastepaper basket.

A letter with the following requests will be sent to Dr. Peterson, Vice President of Academic Affairs.

1) That the teacher evaluation be considered as the voice of the students.

2) More choice in required subjects, e.g., addition of astronomy, botany or oceanography, fulfilling science requirements.

3) Pass-Fail (credit-no credit) system in required core subjects.

4) Additions to curriculum, corresponding to new student interests (Ecology, Journalism, Black History, etc.).

5) Well-informed advisors in field of major from Freshman year.

6) Reduction of 8:00 a.m. classes.

7) Provide public information on where to complain about course, teacher, method, etc.

8) Review of department heads, reminding them of changing times, to prevent firing of any popular teacher persecuted for progressive teaching methods.

We realize some proposals are already being studied, while others seem idealistic in view of the financial situation. But the sooner the problems are realized the sooner they're solved.

If you agree that change is needed, SUPPORT US! The pleas of a few will be heard, but the shouts from hundreds of paying students will warrant greater attention.

When interested students ask for your support, kindly support our requests and add any suggestions you may have.

time. The erection of new buildings and the establishment of new programs necessitated spending more money that could be generated year to year. The Comptroller feels that we are now about to enter a period of stabilization in which no major changes will occur in our plant or program until 1973. After that point, a period of moderate expansion is expected to follow.

During this stabilization period the fund raising efforts of the Development Office will be stepped up and the Office for Special Projects will continue its efforts to obtain governmental support.

The goal of the College during its period of stabilization is to get as much as possible out of the College as it now exists. Whenever possible it will maintain its current level of services and attempt to refine and make better what we have without any additional expenses.

Although the road ahead might be a little uncertain, we can remain optimistic knowing that administrators are aware of the situation and constantly strive to solve the problems in such a manner as to maximize student services, both educational and otherwise.

The author wishes to express his sincere thanks to the Comptroller of the College, Mr. Thomas L. Piazza, for his support, advice and moreover for his recognition that the student body needed to be appraised of the facts in order to be fully aware of the College's financial position.

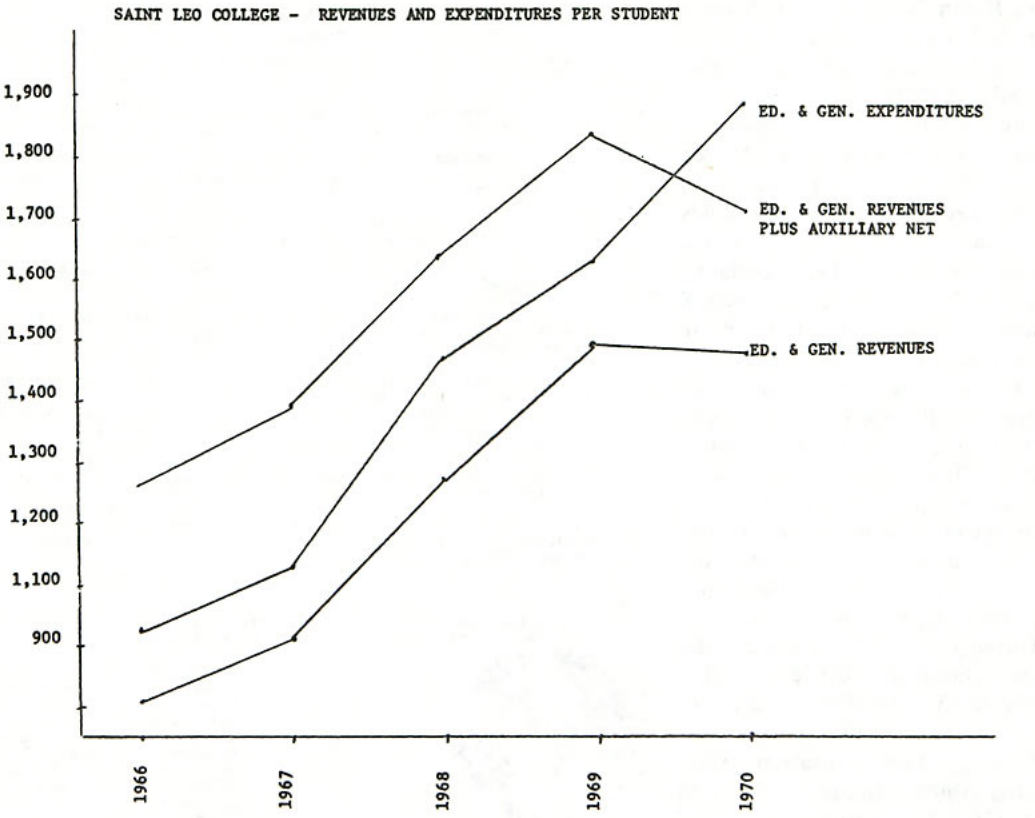
SAINT LEO COLLEGE - REVENUES AND EXPENDITURES PER STUDENT



Sophs Prepare for CLEP Tests

Sophomore Comprehensive Examinations will be held on Saint Leo College campus on March 2 and 4 between 1:30 and 5:00. All sophomores are required to take these examinations. The Faculty Coordinator for the series of tests will again be Colonel Marvin A. Kreidberg.

The examinations are collectively referred to as the College Level Examination Program, or the CLEP General Test. These examinations are required in most universities and colleges throughout the United States. These and similar achievement ratings are utilized by businesses for evaluating students seeking employment.

In a recent interview, Col. Kreidberg pointed out several reasons why the students taking these examinations should try to do the best possible job. He explained that a student will be able to evaluate himself by comparing his rank to those of his peers here at Saint Leo College and also to the national norm of Liberal Arts institutions. The tests will also offer the student practice in taking examinations similar to those necessary for entrance into graduate school and many business operations.

Colonel Kreidberg mentioned that the student who does exceptionally well in a particular section of the examination, may ask the College for a waiver in that field and still receive credit for the course.

The results of the tests also enable the College to look at the existing curriculum and determine whether any possible changes could benefit the students.

The results of these examinations will be given to the students when they return in September.

In looking at CLEP General Tests that have been taken in recent years (based on the College's Self-Study), students at Saint Leo have faired below average in most fields. In March of 1969, the total student average for all five examinations was a 426 (possible 800) with a percentile rank of 26. In March of 1970, it faired a bit better with a 430 for the total student average and a percentile rank of 28.

Col. Kreidberg has emphasized that all students take these examinations very seriously and that the students exert every ability so as to do their best.

Student Fees to Increase

The Comptroller's office has unofficially announced that students should expect about a 5% increase in student fees next year.

Concurrently with this move, the finance office will start separating tuition fees from room and board. Day students will just pay the tuition fee, expected to be raised about $20. Resident students, who will pay both tuition and room and board, should expect the increase to be about $70 over current rates.

Student fees currently earn about 92% of the Educational and General Revenue of the College which takes care of its day to day operation.

Father Sullivan, representing the Knights of Columbus, receives cash prize from Dave Bruno, Chairman of the Inter-Club Council's Aluminum Can Contest. Looking on are members of the Inter-Club Council, representatives of Circle K and Phi Theta Chi (Tied for first place), and boys of the Benedictine Boys Village, to whom the proceeds will go. The Knights of Columbus took second place.

Organizational News

Sigma Lambda

The brothers of Sigma Lambda would like to congratulate and welcome our new brothers into the fraternity.

For the past two weeks Sigma Lambda has been renovating the Day Care Center in Dade City. After seeing how brother Richie Hopkins handles a paint brush, we are assured that this project will be finished this weekend. Thanks to the efforts of the Rescue Squad, our campus roads have been cleaned. We hope the student body will show their appreciation by disposing of their litter in the nearest trash bin.

The brothers would like to extend their thanks to Mr. Robert Harris. Mr. Harris, in conjunction with the Villa Program, came to the campus and spoke on white racism and the plight of the black man.

In the coming weeks we will be presenting a rabbi from the Jewish Chautauqua Society to speak to the students on the Middle East Crisis. The brothers are also planning to show many educational films in Lewis Hall starting next week. All interested students should consult the Daily Say-So every Monday for the dates of when these films will be shown.

Inter Club Council

Piles of aluminum cans!

The Inter Club Council's Can Contest was a success. From all the student organizations invited to compete, three proved their worth.

Charlie Eason, President of the I.C.C., and Dave Bruno, Treasurer of the I.C.C. and Chairman of the Contest, announced that the Circle K Club, Phi Theta Chi, and the Knights of Columbus are the winning groups.

The Boys Village is still accepting cans from anyone willing to donate any, whether it's one or a bagful.

Local merchants were encouraging in their interest, in particular a pizza concession at a San Antonio bar and a certain bar and package store across the street from the aforementioned.

Knights of Columbus

The College Council of the Knights of Columbus claims two recent contributions to the College.

The members have finished repainting two benches by the Abbey Church, and the Knights also helped the Benedictine Boys Village in the I.C.C.'s Can Contest. As a result of the coordinating efforts of Wes Rader, the K. of C. was selected second place winner.

For now, the Knights have planned a series of interesting meetings and open sessions of interest to everyone. They will soon have a social to which they invite all students.

They hope to let everyone learn more about the Knights of Columbus and the many opportunities for anyone who would like to become aware of what the K. of C. is and what the members do.

One way they try to gain some recognition on the campus is with a special weekly mass each Tuesday morning at 7:15 in the Abbey Church, to which they invite everyone.

Rescue Squad

We wish to publicly commend the members of the Rescue Squad. For the past two weekends they have been working around the campus and in San Antonio trying to beautify the scenery by cleaning up debris thrown about by less careful persons.

The Squad is doing this in addition to the services the members provide for everyone constantly, which keeps them busy in itself.

We thank you all.

Kappa Theta

Kappa Theta fraternity would like to extend their congratulations to its new brothers: Jerry Seevers, Bob Clingen, Bob Lathem, Jerry Vertucci, Mike Purpura, Greg Clarke, and Bob Camilleri.

Under the direction of Athletic Director Louis Theodorou, the Greek Week team of Kappa Theta has been preparing diligently for the events that mark Greek Week.

The brothers would also like to announce that Marilyn Kennedy has been selected as Kappa Theta's Greek Goddess candidate.

Under the inspiring leadership of "Uncle Rui," the basketball team of Kappa Theta compiled its best record ever of two wins and eight defeats while in competition this season. The brothers would like to thank all of the people who supported them throughout the season.

Phi Tau Omega

The sisters of Phi Tau Omega are engaged in new work projects this semester with the support of their new little sisters accepted in January.

Such projects include work at the Trillacoochee and Trilby Head Start programs, and the Florida Girls Ranch and there are many activities involving the school itself.

The girls are also working to achieve new and better goals for themselves.

Faculty to be Cut 10-15%

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, the portion of the College's proposed budget for fiscal year 1972 (July 1, 1971 to June 30, 1972) concerned with faculty salaries was turned down.

Mr. Thomas L. Piazza, comptroller, explained that the proposals, although under normal circumstances warranted, were unrealistic when the College's present and projected financial condition is considered. Income projection for next year, even with an increase in student fees, would not allow Saint Leo to expand its instructional expense budget.

First Year Faculty in Jeopardy

Due to the contractual arrangements with the faculty, only those faculty members here less than one year are in jeopardy. This is determined by nature of The Faculty Handbook which states under the heading "Faculty Rights and Terms of Employment," Section 1, Paragraph F, that: "Notice of intention not to reappoint will be given by March 1 in case of first year faculty members, by December 15 in the case of a second year faculty member, and at least twelve months prior to the expiration of the contract in the case of a faculty member who has served at the College three or more years."

As the last two dates are well in the past, only those faculty members here less than one year, on one year contracts, could be severed from the faculty.

The original deadline for the signing of contracts for these faculty members was Monday, March 1, 1971. This date has been extended, but the Office of the Vice President of Academic Affairs has declined to confirm that the rumored date of March 22 is correct.

First Things First

Lent? Easter's Coming! — and the End!

The day before yesterday was Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent. To many of us this meant nothing more than to serve as a reminder that April is just around the corner and we'll all be packing up and going home for another summer vacation. Maybe this is a good thing, for it may wake some of us up to the fact that we need to buckle down and do some studying before it's too late and we find that the school year ends on a Good Friday note instead of the Easter motif.

Easter this year falls on April 11th and three days later classes end. So for all intent and purpose, Easter heralds the end of the school year. – and it's only "forty days" off!

Not too many of us get too "shook up" over Lent these days. Fasting is no longer in style, and giving up candy and cigarettes is now looked at more from dietary and health considerations rather than from any religious or "ascetical" point of view. So this business of Lent would appear to be just plain old fashioned!

But is it really? Is "giving something up" or "doing something extra" really what Lent is all about anyway? I don't think so. Lent is rather a time to look at ourselves and see if we are even doing that which we are supposed to be doing, and if not, to get with it! For the student of Saint Leo College (or any other educational institution for that matter) this would mean that he should be just that, namely, a student. Or if we claim to be Christians, then let's get down to the business of being Christian. There's an old Latin saying: "Fac quod facis!", which literally translated means: "Do what you are doing!" And that's what Lent is all about: trying to do as best as possible what we should be doing already.

The hallmark of a truly Christian life is love, and certainly during Lent this should be the main thing we work at. In this vein a noted priest-psychologist, Father Eugene Kennedy, has written some thought-provoking lines about love during Lent.

"Lent," he says, "really doesn't ask us to do something extra just for forty days. It asks us to look deeper and more sensitively at each other and to keep at it for a lifetime. It is the steady surrender of self that love demands, and Lent gives us a chance to remember it again. The days before Easter present us with the opportunity of healing the wounds we have inflicted on each other, of reaching out in forgiveness, and of cutting away the defensive feelings that make us wary of the demands both of life and of love. Lent is a time to remember that in many ways, as John F. Kennedy used to say, life is not fair. There is no remaking it and no successful stepping back from it for anybody who really calls himself a Christian.

"In turning our gaze again toward each other with greater love and understanding we find the only thing the Gospels really ask us to do at any time in our lives. We are on a journey together and when we feel the strain of trying to love each other more we know that we are headed in the right direction."

Lent is here! A time for studying. A time for loving. Spring time. Be converted, the end is near! Fac quod facis!

Women's Club Sponsors Fashion Show

The Saint Leo College Women's Club will hold its annual Scholarship Fashion Show and Card Party in Marmion Dining Hall on Wednesday, March 10, beginning at 1:00 p.m. All students, faculty and members of the community are invited to attend.

The Fashion Show will be provided by Otto's Department Store of Dade City.

A donation of $1.50 will be charged for admittance. All proceeds will go towards a scholarship to be given to a student in the area who will be attending Saint Leo College next September as a Freshman.

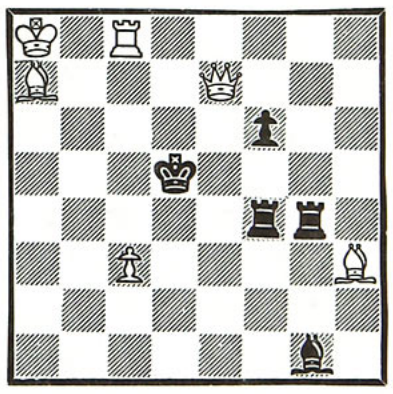
For further information, contact Mrs. Swart at 588-3631 or Mrs. Beth Evans at extension 241 at the College.

The Saint Leo College Women's Club is composed of faculty wives, secretaries and influential people in the area.

THE CHESS CORNER

by Bro. Hugh O'Regan, O.S.B.

Rumor has it that Ray O'Connor was playing Lightning Chess at the home of Rick Jones the other evening. At one stage of the game Jones had maneuvered his opponent into a tricky position. Thinking to hurry his adversary into making the wrong capture, Jones said, "Well, Ray, what are you going to take?" "Thank you," came the reply instantaneously, "I'll take a Scotch whiskey."



White to play and mate in two

The most popular and widely practiced variation of the Royal Game is Lightning Chess, also known as Speed or Five Minute Chess. It has long been popular with tournament players who, between rounds, need a change of pace.

The rules are quite simple. In Lightning Chess each player has 30 seconds in which to think out and complete his move. The players must stay within this time limit or forfeit the game. All the other rules of orthodox chess apply in this variation with two exceptions. 1) All checks on the king must be announced. 2) An illegal move automatically forfeits the game.

As you can imagine, the relative amount of skill needed is extremely low as well as the length of time needed to play a three or four game match. Is regular chess getting you down? Try playing Lightning Chess. You may find it a refreshing change.

The solution to our last problem was Q–B4!

The Monarchs Baseball Roster as they begin their tough season today.

Monarchs Open '71 Season Today

by Greg Steltner

This afternoon, beginning at 3:30 in Massey Field, Dade City, the highly regarded Saint Leo Monarchs make their debut against Biscayne College of Miami. Biscayne, once thought to be a push over, has since developed a fine team.

Saint Leo will open what looks like their strongest pitching staff in history. Leading the hurlers are veterans like Dave Chaney, who compiled a 7-3 win-loss record last season, Denny Harrigan, Jim Lasker, Kevin Carlin and Dave Korczykowski. As if that wasn't enough Coach Meyer has found three new promising new comers in the likes of Danny Evans, a transfer student from Miami Dade Junior College, Mike Reichert and Ron Vick.

The talent certainly does not all lie with the pitchers, as the Monarchs have quite a few hitters. Leading the way is All American Chuck Sousa who hit a comfortable .352 last season while handling the first base duties. Second baseman Danny Leitzell, although he had a disappointing season last year batting .248, is expected to regain the form he showed while batting over .300 his freshman year. At third base will be Marty Tobias, the New York City boy who is commonly known as "Hoover" for his remarkable talents at fielding the hot ground balls in the third base corner. Tobias' talents don't all lie in his fielding abilities. He should also be remembered as a reliable clutch hitter who hit a respectable .295 last season.

Playing to the left of Tobias in the infield will be senior Ken Kamradt who has shown in pre-season that he has broken out of the slump which plagued him last season.

The catching duties will be shared this season between two adequate backstoppers in Captain Emil Bucci and Sophomore suprise Bob Sallinger. Bucci batted a respectable .250 last season and was known for his fine defensive work and leadership. Sallinger, remembered for his bat, swatted the ball at a .393 clip last season.

In the Monarch outfield is returning sophomore centerfielder Jimmy Mariucci who patrols his region of the field as if it were his own back yard. Mariucci, the Monarch switchhitting leadoff man, batted .212 last season and fully realizes there is room for improvement here.

Right and left field duties will be shared by a host of newcomers. One of these will be strong left hand hitter Rick Teele, a 6-2, 200 pounder from Brooksville, Florida. The other position will probably be held down for the time being by hustling Bobby Delgado, a Junior transfer from Florida.

Back up men in the outfield will be Teddy Delpapa, along with veterans Tommy Savage and Big Al Valentine, the Monarchs' ace in the hole when it comes down to pinch hitting duties.

Coach Meyer has two other insurance men for his infield. One is a promising freshman by the name of Mike Carabrese. The short stocky fellow has the ability to spell Kamradt or Tobias whenever the situation presents itself. The other is junior transfer student, Tommy Pardalis, who comes to Saint Leo by way of Dean Junior College in Massachusetts.

These are the men who represent Saint Leo College's baseball fortunes this season. The kind of season which Coach Billy Meyer characterizes as "very promising."

During the first two weeks of the season Saint Leo is scheduled to play Tampa, Stetson, Florida State, University of South Florida, West Liberty State College and powerful Austin Peay University.

The Monarchs certainly have the potential along with one of the toughest baseball schedules in the country. Without a doubt, if all goes well, this could be the big year.

Wrap-Up for Junior Varsity

The Monarch Junior Varsity ended its 1970-71 basketball season with a fascinating 87-82 victory over the Intramural All Stars. Congratulations should go to Coach John Swart for his skillful handling of this group of freshmen that won 2 and lost 11, but ended the season with a pair of victories over a bunch of slightly overweight intramural and fraternity players. This year, Coach Swart's team featured a new innovation, the playing of only four players against Seminole Junior College for the seven minutes of the 98-73 loss. We can only wonder in amazement what Coach Swart will do next year. Players to look for next year will be John Conley, Jim Kiley, Al Hengesbach, Mark Mitchell, and Jeff Prestinario.

Who's Number One?

by Joe Damato

It is obvious that bowling hasn't become the number one pastime for Saint Leo students, but with the three weekly specials now being held it is a sure bet that it will soon be ranked in the top ten.

What are these specials? The first is everyone's favorite: the Wednesday night $1.00 night. Each Wednesday evening you can bowl all you want for $1.00 when you come in a group of at least three. This is a night that you will want to come early and stay late, and what a way to get in those extra games of bowling that you so badly need.

Friday night kicks off a big weekend of bowling with the "Blue Pin" contest. Just groove a strike when the blue headpin appears and you will win a free game. This is your chance to be in the pressure pot just like the five pro bowlers you see every Saturday afternoon.

Finally, Saturday night brings on the ever popular "Ladies Night." Yes fellas, we're giving you an opportunity to bring your favorite girl bowling at our expense. (All ladies must be accompanied by a date in order for this offer to be valid.)

With this great lineup, bowling's surge to the top is inevitable. So, "make bowling your thing ... swing!"

SPORTS

Monarchs End 70-71 Season at Pensacola

by Dave Schulte

The Saint Leo Monarchs end their 1970-71 basketball season today, with the final game of the year against the University of West Florida at Pensacola. So far the season has been an amazing success with the Monarchs winning nine of their last eleven games for a 15-7 record over the toughest schedule ever.

After tough early season losses on the road to Stetson University, 77-63, and Lamar Tech., 100-73, the Monarchs upset highly favored North Texas State, of the Missouri Valley Conference, 53 to 47, at Denton, Texas, in a thrilling game. Returning home for the first game in the Rev. Marion Bowman Activities Center, the Monarchs defeated Lander College of South Carolina, 101 to 83 with Mike O'Brien setting a new SLC scoring record by getting 51 points.

After a last minute loss to the University of Tampa, 68 to 65, at Howell Gym in Tampa, the Monarchs traveled north to Lake Charles, Louisiana, for the 18th Annual McNeese State Holiday Tournament. In the opening round, Saint Leo upset the host team McNeese State, 98 to 95, in double overtime. The next night a tired Monarch team ran into number two ranked Louisiana Tech. and lost 104 to 63 in the championship game. Mike O'Brien was the leading scorer and was named to the all-tournament team.

On December 31, 1970, the Monarchs came home and defeated the University of Maine, 101 to 73, as Steve Smith scored a career high of 39 points. The day after New Year's the Monarchs ended their holiday contests with a surprising 86 to 78 win over highly regarded Aquinas College of Michigan. Mike O'Brien's 28 points and Greg O'Connell's 25 points upped Saint Leo's record to five wins and four losses.

With Mike O'Brien averaging 30.5 points a game, the Monarchs rolled over Rollins College 87 to 78, with O'B getting 39 points. On Jan. 7, Texas Wesleyan defeated Saint Leo, 77 to 68, to stop a three game winning streak as O'B poured in 34 points. Late in the game Greg O'Connell fell and strained ligaments in his knee. This sidelined him for seven games.

Next the Monarchs improved their record to 9 and 5 with victories over MacMurray College, 78 to 63, Palm Beach Atlantic, 83 to 67, and the University of Tampa, 71 to 70. In the three games Mike O'Brien scored 117 points to up his average to 32.1 for third in the nation among small college scorers.

Southeastern Louisiana next invaded Saint Leo and avenged last year's defeat with a 65 to 62 victory on the strength of four foul shots in the last 14 seconds. Mike O'Brien's 32 points and 16 rebounds could not overcome the numerous fouls and mistakes in the game.

The Monarchs from Jan. 26 to Feb. 3 played their best ball of the season winning three games in eight days. First there was the Florida Tech Engineers who fell 64 to 62 to Mike O'Brien's 24 points, 18 rebounds and 10 assists. Secondly the Bethune-Cookman Wildcats roared in and left with an 83 to 80 loss behind the clutch shooting of Mike O'Brien and Steve Smith in the closing minutes. They had 29 and 20 points respectively. Thirdly, the Monarchs roared into Lakeland, the home of the Florida Southern Moccasins, and dealt them their fourth loss of the season 65 to 63. Substitute Kevin Connors provided the margin of victory with six of his 16 points in the last two minutes. Star Mike O'Brien fouled out of the game with 7 minutes remaining to provide the setting for the last minute heroics which gave the Monarchs their 12th victory in 18 games.

The Monarchs next had a week and a half to prepare for the Florida A&M team but it was in vain as the Rattlers won 78 to 76 in the last second of play. Numerous floor mistakes and excessive fouls did St. Leo in as they lost their seventh game of the season. In the losing cause Mike O'Brien scored 35 points and Greg O'Connell added 22 points.

The final chapter of the 1970-71 basketball season was highlighted by three home court victories. On Saturday, Feb. 13, the Monarchs behind Mike O'Brien's 29 points and 28 rebounds overcame the stubborn Sailfish of Palm Beach Atlantic, 94 to 63. The 31 points margin of victory over the West Palm Beach team was the highest of the season.

Two days later came a rematch against tough Bethune-Cookman of Daytona Beach and Saint Leo with its strongest team effort of the year put four men in double figures in a 98 to 74 rout. Mike O'Brien, Saint Leo's Little All-American candidate led the way with 136 points and 16 rebounds. Also for the Monarchs Kevin Connors 22 points, Pat Monugue 11 points and Greg O'Connell 10 points shared in the scoring.

The final home game of the year on Friday Feb. 19 honored the six graduating seniors, Peter Doyle, Kevin Connors, Pat Monogue, Mike O'Brien and Greg O'Connell. The game against Florida Tech of Melbourne was a rout from the beginning. The Monarchs up 44 to 28 at half increased this to 91 to 68 to win their 15th game of the season against 7 losses. Mike O'Brien, number two in the country in scoring, tossed in 43 points as he played his last home game at Saint Leo. This year ends a four year career in which 16 records were broken by the 6'8 forward from Chicago. Also senior Captain Greg O'Connell added 10 points and Steve Smith had 12 points.

This ends the second year of coaching for Norm Kaye and by far his best. The real test of Coach Kaye will come next year when he has to rebuild.

NEWS BRIEFS

Saint Leo College's Division of Fine Arts presents an Art Show with works of all students presently enrolled in art courses at the College.

The many works are exhibited in the Duncan Lounge of the McDonald Student Center.

The show opens Wednesday, March 3, continuing until March 23. All members of the collegiate community, and all persons living in the area are welcome to view the students' work.

The art show is presented each semester, with a later art show exhibiting works of Graduating Art majors.

Once again, Phi Theta Chi is sponsoring its semi-annual Saint Anthony's Hospital Blood Bank.

It is tentatively planned for the 9th and 10th of March, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Saint Anthony's Hospital is located in St. Petersburg.

In the past, the collection center is setup in the Student Affairs Complex in Saint Edward Hall.

Everyone is invited to help this cause and at the same time help themselves and their families to be included in a nationwide reciprocal blood bank program.

NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE EDITORS

Now is the time to begin thinking about next year in terms of student involvement in the campus newspaper. A successful newspaper depends upon successful editors. It is hoped that the consistency and quality of The Lion during this year has served to motivate individuals to think of possible editorial positions in the future.

Formal notice will be made shortly in the future specifying the requirements for positions on the school's student publications.

The Preservation Hall Jazz Band made the scene at Saint Leo College on February 9 and the audience was glad they did.
